<td>Purpose of the Position</td>
<td>As part of the Humane Society of the United States’ (HSUS) volunteer leadership, district leaders’ efforts help to build an even stronger platform of protection for all animals and advance the HSUS’ federal, state and local animal protection legislative agenda. District leaders are at the forefront of HSUS efforts to create a more humane society.</td>

Volunteer Responsibilities

- Actively participate in ongoing federal, state and local legislative advocacy and policy work and reform campaigns
- Cultivate effective, professional relationships with legislators; politely, clearly and consistently relay the organization’s animal protection positions to them, encourage their support/co-sponsorship, and thank them for their efforts
- Build a network of HSUS allies in your community who will take action with you on animal protection issues
- Serve as an HSUS ambassador in your congressional district, communicating our mission, approach and positions while fostering a greater animal protection presence in your state and community
- Track and report your hours of service and activities on behalf of the HSUS in the volunteer database and update your HSUS state director and/or the director of grassroots as requested
- Participate in your state’s annual Humane Lobby Day, as well as federal Humane Lobby Day in Washington, DC when it is offered
- Submit letters to the editor to your local newspaper
- Represent the organization and help raise awareness on animal protection issues at community events
- Actively engage in a supportive community of HSUS volunteer leaders on social media and post relevant content on personal social media accounts, including Facebook and Twitter
- Optional: Under the guidance of your HSUS state director, develop and implement a local animal protection project in your community. Sample projects include working with your City Council or County Board to champion an ordinance banning the use of wild and exotic animals in circuses, adopting restrictions on tethering, banning the sale of animals from puppy mills, or repealing Breed Specific Legislation. Please note: district leaders must consult with their state director to identify local projects that are most relevant to the needs of their community and state.

Level of Difficulty

1=easy/5=demanding

- Physical difficulty is level 2; district leaders will likely have minimal physical activity related to their work, aside from gathering for meetings or setting up for and attending outreach events.
- Mental difficulty is level 4; requires strategic thinking and the ability to... work well independently, be self-motivated; must have strong verbal and written communication skills and able to use good judgment
- Emotional difficulty is level 3; contact with the public can result in interactions with people in a heightened emotional state because of their connection with and commitment to animal protection.

<td>How Often Volunteers Work On-site</td>
<td>Most of the work will be done remotely from the district leader’s home. District leaders will be expected to attend in-person meetings and events in their community as needed, with the potential for travel to/from Humane Lobby Day(s).</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Orientation/Training</td>
<td>District leaders will become highly trained and effective volunteer leaders in the rapidly growing animal protection movement and will receive advanced training and ongoing support in effective animal advocacy from staff of the nation’s most effective animal protection organization. District leaders will be provided with an orientation and background information, including information on the HSUS’ policies, programs and campaigns through an online, self-paced training course titled, “The Role of The HSUS in the Animal Protection Movement” (HSUS 301), a Volunteer Leader Toolkit with support and opportunities for engagement, and access to numerous additional resources via our volunteer database. We also provide guidelines and instructions on how to report volunteer hours and efforts.</td>
